

Blandine Camus

From the Common Agricultural Policy to the certification schemes and the promotion of agricultural products, the European Union's policies affect mountain farming in different ways. The post-2022 CAP impacts farmers' income but also influences agricultural sectors and practices. Other policies shape the means given to the promotion of mountain products, which reflect the traditional know-hows but also the typical ecosystems and natural constraints of each territory.